Vikings Safety Harrison Smith

Q: Is this defense starting to look the way you would like it to look?

A: Anytime we can have a game like that; and get a win, that's the identity we are looking for. Tough, good against the run, getting after it up front, playing tight coverage on the back end; but you have to prove it each and every week. You can do it one week; and if you don't show up the next, it doesn't matter.

Q: Was this the most swarming defense you've ever been involved in during a game?

A: It was definitely up there. If you hold a team to nine points and have ten sacks, you have a pretty good shot at winning the game.

Q: What does it do for the secondary when you see the defensive line winning up front?

A: It gives us more confidence; we play off one another. We know our guys are getting off the ball and putting pressure on them, we know if we give them time, they will get there. It's just fun to be a part of.
